"The Hiſtory of the United States for the year 1796,"

In which the CHARGE OF SPECULATION againſt

ALEXANDER HAMILTON,

Late SECRETARY of the TREASURY, is FULLY REFUTED.

WRITTEN BY HIMSELF.

This publication preſents a conciſe ſtatement of the baſe means practiſed by the Jacobins of the United States to aſperſe the characters of thoſe perſons who are conſidered as hoſtile to their diſorganizing ſchemes. It alſo contains the correſpondence between Mr. Hamilton and Meſſrs. Monroe, Muhlenburgh and Venable, on the ſubject of the documents aforeſaid, and a ſeries of letters from James Reynolds and his wife to Mr. Hamilton, proving beyond the poſſibility of a doubt, that the connection between him and Reynolds, was the reſult of a daring conſpiracy on the part of the latter and his aſſociates to extort money.

☞ A diſcount of one third from the retail price will be made in favor of wholeſale purchaſers, for CASH. Orders to be addreſſed to Mr. YOUNG.

ALBANY, Nov. 20.

On Friday last, we had a continued snow storm for several hours—Indeed the whole day was stormy. Since which, the weather has been uncommonly cold for this early season. The river on Saturday was crowded with ice for many miles below—yet, on Sunday, there being a strong south wind, some vessels got up to the harbour. This morning the river is full of ice.

SUFFIELD, Nov. 15.

Departed this life on the 11th inst. James Remington, son of Mr. Shadrick Remington, of West-Springfield—aged 6 years. He was an amiable, agreeable child, and the hope of his fond parents. In the Herald of the 1st instant, was announced to the public, that this child was most shockingly bitten by a mad dog. He had 12 distinct wounds on the face, the right eye almost destroyed, and two upper teeth torn out, and such a quantity of virus, or poison, thrown into the blood, that its operation has been fatal, notwithstanding much pains were taken to collect information from the most experienced neighboring physicians, and the child put under the most powerful mercurial course. On Tuesday the 7th inst. the 10th day from the bite, in the afternoon, the approaching symptoms of hydrophobia took place—sharp, darting pains from the wounds, in various directions, particularly to the head and breast—a sense of lassitude and languor, and an aversion to motion, with cold rigors, succeeded by flushes of heat: the large wounds then dried up, which had untill then, been kept open, and discharged freely—in the night he was restless, and disturbed with frightful dreams—on Wednesday the 8th, in the afternoon, symptoms of hydrophobia were very apparent, the nervous system in great commotion and swallowing fluids extremely difficult. We shall pass over the symptoms he was attended with from that time until the night on which he died, only remarking that he was for the most part extremely convulsed in attempting to swallow—On the night before he died, the raving increased and appeared very alarming, his pulse low and fluttering, his eyes glaring and fierce, his motions quick and frightful, and his agonies such as made him change his posture every half minute, his mind in constant pertubation, often starting, and had fearful apprehensions that a dog was about him. He was now shockingly convulsed by attempting to swallow a tea spoon full of tea, and the horror of the scene redoubled by grinding and gnashing the teeth, frothing and foaming at the mouth—He continued the most of the night in this convulsive distress, which cannot be described, until between 3 and 4 o'clock on Sunday morning, when, quite exhausted, he sunk back on his pillow where with a ghastly countenance, and glaring eyes, and laborious, interrupted respiration, but free from convulsive affections, retained the faculty of hearing, seeing, and knowing his friends—gave his hand to each of the family in the room, while his looks spoke more than pen can describe. He continued until about 5 o'clock, when in a moment, without a groan or struggle, death closed the awful scene!

CHARLESTON, November 4.

The office of Consul for the United States, at the port of London, is now vacant. Joshua Johnson, esq. the late Consul, resigned his office and sailed for America, before the ship Sisters left London.

NASSAU, (N. P.) October 17.

This day his worship the judge of the court of vice admiralty gave his definitive sentence in the case of the Danish ship Theodore, Matthew Bertyman, master, from Charleston for Havanna, captured by the George and Ophelia privateer.

His worship was pleased to condemn the ship upon the ground of James Fletcher, one of the claimants, who swore he was sole owner of the ship, being a British subject. It appeared, in evidence, that Mr. Fletcher was born in Dublin, and after the commencement of hostilities between Great Britain and France had obtained a Danish Burgher's brief, and sworn allegiance to the king of Denmark; that his principal residence was in New-Orleans; and that during the present war with Spain, he had been a constant trader with that nation. His worship was also pleased to condemn the property appearing to be shipped by Mr. Maxwell, of Charleston, from the claimant's having had doubts about it, and it appearing that a Spanish passenger had offered a bribe to the master of the privateer to have it liberated. The property shipped by Messrs. Potter and Park, of Charleston, the claimants swore was for the sole account, risk and benefit of the shippers, and none others; but by an intercepted letter from Mr. Park it came out that by contract made between him and Mr. Fletcher, before the latter left Charleston, Mr. Fletcher was one half interested in the property shipped by Park. His worship therefore declared, that what the claimants had sworn relative to the shipment by Park, appeared to be false, and condemned the one half thereof as lawful prize; acquitting the property of Mr. Potter, and the half to which Mr. Park is entitled.

[The statemen in the above, "that by a contract between Mr. Park and Mr. Fletcher, the latter was one half interested in the property shipped by the former," we are authorised to say, is not correct. It is only true that in consequence of the readiness he had evinced in a former instance to serve him, Mr. Park informed Mr. Fletcher, that if he would have the goodness to assist the consignees in facilitating the sale of the goods, and in procuring a vessel in which to remit the proceeds, he should be entitled to half of any profits that might accrue.]

In the gale of the 16th instant, the ship Speedwell, Brownlow, from Charleston for New Orleans, foundered in the Gulph—The captain with his passengers and crew, 21 in all, arrived here last evening, in an open boat, after having for 14 days, been exposed to extremities which seem almost beyond the power of human nature to have surrounded.—The benevolent disposition of the inhabitants of this place, which has been so often exerted in favour of the indigent and distressed, we are confident will be displayed on the present occasion—and there rarely has occurred one which called more loudly for relief.

PHILADELPHIA,

FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 1.

For the GAZETTE of the UNITED STATES.

MR. FENNO,

Finding in your paper of the 24th ult. under the Norfolk head, extracts of two letters said to be written from Martinique, implicating several mercantile houses in that Island in a charge of a very serious nature, (in one of which houses I am concerned) I deem it necessary, in order to take off any undue impressions which may have been made on the public mind in regard to myself as well as in justification of the house of Ogden, Charrurier & Co. merchants of Martinique, to state the following facts.

It may be necessary to premise that Mr. John Charrurier, who the French administration in that Island thought proper to arrest is not of the house of Ogden, Charrurier & Co. but of another mercantile firm, entirely unconnected with the former, and the facts with regard to the money imported into the Island are simply these—The small coin in circulation there is a nominal thing of the value of one penny half penny currency. This being the principal medium of change, and becoming very scarce, induced some merchants to import a parcel from England, which importation was not restrained by the French administration (who have the civil government of the Island by capitulation) until the importers became numerous and the quantity imported so great as to cause an inconvenience in trade. The administration then passed an ordinance, inflicting fine and imprisonment on any person who should make any further importations of the coin—and a few weeks after a vessel arriving from England, having a quantity on board, which had been ordered out previously to its having been made illegal to import it—the administration seized on the property of all those, who they could discover had at any time imported any, and confined Mr. John Charrurier in gaol. In consequence of this violent proceeding a partner of Mr. John Charrurier's entered a formal protest against the administration, and commenced a suit against them, in which he has laid his damages at £.50,000. The opposition thus made to the mode they had made use of for enforcing their edicts, induced them to liberate Mr. Charrurier, and offer to restore him the store and property they had attached, which he refused to receive, relying on the laws of his country for redress. The store of Ogden, Charrurier & Co. having been in the same manner taken possession of, the administration made a similar proposal of restitution, which met with a like refusal.

Although my residence is in New-York, I have full evidence from letters which I have received from Martinique, and by information from a gentleman direct from thence, that the foregoing is a true statement of the transactions relative to that business—and as the publication of the letters in your gazette (which have called forth this justification) principally pointed to the house of Ogden, Charrurier & Co. with a view no doubt of injuring its credit, and basely to vilify it, it has become my duty to counteract their wrong tendency, and the falsity of the charges contained in them, by all the means in my power. As to the house having imported base and gilt johannes, it is sufficient to declare the assertion utterly void of foundation and infamously false, and I never before heard of a johannes of that description being seen in the Island.

I am sir, yours, &c. &c.

WILLIAM OGDEN.

New-York, 28th Nov. 1797.

Justice to Mr. Ogden demands the insertion of the foregoing in the Norfolk paper, as well as any other into which the extract in question may have been copied. The Connecticut Gazette, printed at New-London, having also published an extract of a letter to the same purport, will doubtless notice the foregoing.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY—NOVEMBER 30.

Mr. Dwight Foster, from the Committee of Claims, made a report on the petition of Ann Gray, unfavourable to the petitioner, which was concurred in by the House.

Mr. Brookes presented the petition of ——Grant, complaining of injuries sustained by being captured by the Miami Indians and kept for three years, during which time he speaks of having experienced the greatest cruelties.—Referred to the Committee of Claims.

Mr. Baldwin presented a remonstrance from the Legislature of Georgia, complaining of the law regulating the intercourse of the United States with the Indian Tribes and also of the operation of existing Treaties.—Referred to a select committee of three members.

Also, a petition from a corps of militia, praying compensation for services performed for the United States.—Referred to the Secretary of War.

Mr. Gallatin presented the memorial of certain citizens called Quakers, in the name of the annual meeting of that body, lately held in Philadelphia. The petitioners, he said, were present. The memorialists state the distressed situation of 134 of their Black Brethren in N. Carolina, who notwithstanding they have been manumitted, are now held in bondage, by cruel and retrospective laws. These, and other iniquitous acts, they allege, have a tendency to bring down the judgments of God upon the country. The calamity lately experienced in this city ought they say, to make us eager to do away all iniquity. They refer the House to the solemn engagements of Congress in the year 1794. respecting slavery, and their then determination to discourage horse-racing, cock-fighting, &c. This they said, was a solemn covenant with the Almighty; but how, they ask, has it been fulfilled? encouragement has been given to play-houses, rioting, drunkenness, chambering and wantonness. National evils, they said, produced national judgments; they therefore pray God to influence the minds of the House to do away these iniquities.

This petition being read by the Clerk, Mr Gallattin moved that it be read a second time. This motion produced a very warm and very important debate (which, for want of room is deferred till to-morrow)—The second reading was opposed, on the grounds of the petition's containing nothing upon which the House could constitutionally act, and on account of its touching a subject, the discussion of which, in that House, always excited great jealousy and uneasiness in the southern states, by Messrs. Harper, Rutledge, Sewall, Macon, J. Parker, Isaac Parker, Blount, Gordon and Venable. The second reading was supported on the ground of its being the usual course of business, as being respectful to the petitioners, and as being most likely to produce the best effects; as if a committee were appointed to make a report thereon, whatever that report might be, it would be more likely to give satisfaction to the petitioners, whom all must allow formed a respectable part of the Community, than to treat the petition with the contempt which some gentlemen had proposed, by Messrs. Gallatin, Thatcher, Lyon, Swanwick, Allen, Livingston, Bayard, Nicholas, Edmond and S. Smith.

The question for a second reading was at length taken and carried—53 votes being in the affirmative.

Mr. Gallatin moved that it be referred to a select committee, which was agreed to, 59 members being for it. The committee appointed were, Messrs. Sitgreaves, Nicholas, Dana, Schureman and S. Smith.

The Speaker read a letter from Mr. Dallas, Secretary of this Commonwealth, mentioning the resignation of Mr. Ege, as a member of the House, and that a writ had been issued for the election of a new member.—Referred to the Committee of Elections.

(Much having been lately said of the disturbances in Scotland, in consequence of the unfavorable operation of the militia act in that country; the following may not prove unacceptable to our readers. It is in itself a temperate and well penned explanation of the nature, and intended operation, of that law; and if accurately made, shews it as calculated to afford peculiar ease to the subject in the urgency of an existing war.) [N. Y. Pap.]

By his grace the Duke of Buccleugh, lord lieutenant of the county of Mid Lothian.

As it is evident, from the riotous and disorderly resistance which has taken place in some of the neighboring counties to the execution of the militia act, that the most infamous misrepresentations have been used to mislead the people, and to prejudice them against a measure which but a few months before was loudly demanded by the whole nation, the lord lieutenant thinks it proper to do all in his power to counteract the efforts of the seditious, and to explain to the people the true meaning of the militia act, in so far as they are concerned.—When the act is properly explained to them, he is satisfied that the people themselves will see thro' the designs of those who have attempted to deceive them, and who would excite them to resist an act which gives to this country a force which has always been the pride of England, and is justly considered by all ranks there as their best and most constitutional defence.

1 mo. The whole of Scotland is to raise but 6000 men, while England has at present nearly 50,000 militia actually embodied, and 60,000 supplementary, or additional militia, who have been trained, and are all ready to be called at a moments warning.

2 do. The age is limited by the act to young men between 19 and 23 inclusive, of all ranks and degrees. This age has obviously been selected by the Legislature, in order that the burden may fall as lightly as possible on those who are settled in life: few of that age being married or settled in business.

3 tio. In order to make the burden still lighter, several exceptions are created in the act, particularly all articled clerks and apprentices, and every man having more than two children born in wedlock. The reason and utility of these exceptions are obvious.

4to. In fact, it is a volunteer militia; for it is declared, that, if in any county the requisite number of able and sufficient men shall turn out as volunteers for the militia, no ballots shall take place. These volunteer militiamen may be of any age, provided they are fit for service, and will be received at any time before the ballot.

5to. In such counties where there shall be a ballot, it is calculated that the lot will fall only on one man in 8 or 10 on the lists.

6to. The men so balloted for are not obliged to serve in person, but may find substitutes of any age, provided they are fit for service.

7mo. Neither the whole or any part of the militia shall, on any account, be carried or ordered to go out of Scotland.

This is expressly enacted by section 55th of the act so that the people will see how shamefully they have been deceived by those who would persuade them that they would be sent to England, or to foreign countries; and so far are they from being liable to be draughted into other regments, that it is enacted by sect. 34.

8vo. That if any officer or other person shall attempt to enlist any militiaman into any other regiment, such officer shall forfeit every offence, forfeit 20l. sterling, and the enlistment is to be void, and further, to prevent the militiamen, even if inclined to enlist, from doing so, they are liable to imprisonment if they impose themselves on officers, and deny that they are militiamen.

9mo. The pay of the militiamen is to be the same with the army, which is now raised to one shilling per day, which, besides lodging, clothing, and other advantages, makes the situation of a militiaman superior to most day labourers, and to many kinds of tradesmen.

They are further entitled to Chelsea, and every other privilege belonging to the militia of England.

10mo. In England each parish generally subscribes to form a fund for providing substitutes, so that the burden falls lightly on the men who do not chuse to serve in person. The same mode may be adopted in Scotland.

11mo. It is also to be observed, that the officers to be appointed to command the militia (if embodied) are to be composed of the gentlemen of landed property in the counties where such companies of corps are to be raised—they will naturally make the service as little burthensome as possible to those under their command, having a mutual interest with them, that the country should be as little as possible deprived of their labour and assistance, either as manufacturers or husbandmen.

The few upon whom the lot may fall will have an opportunity of making themselves known by their good conduct and regular behaviour to those gentlemen of property under whose command they may be placed, and by such conduct secure to themselves and their families in future, their good will and patronage.

After this faithful explanation of the act, and from the accounts which the lord lieutenant has received of the general good disposition of the people of this county, his grace flatters himself, that every thing will be conducted in Mid Lothian with peace and quietness:—but he thinks it his duty to warn those who may be otherwise disposed, that he and his deputies are determined to enforce obedience to the laws of the land, and to support the civil powers in the execution of their duty—If, after this notice, any unlawful opposition or tumult takes place, those concerned will have themselves to blame for the consequences; and all persons will take notice, that every landholder and farmer, and every house holder, high or low, rich or poor, is liable by law, to bear his proportion of any loss or damage sustained by any person from the violence of a mob.

BUCCLEUGH, Lord Lieut.

PARIS, Sept. 2.

Much talk has been made respecting the great quantities of English cloths which have lately been brought into the Republic from Prussia, Hamburg, Batavia, &c. The Directory has published a message on the subject;—in which they inform, that they have authorized at Rouen the importation of 187,247 ells of blue cloth for cloathing of the soldiers; 4,100 ells of blue cloth for regimentals; 11,500 ells scarlet for facings &c. and 359,500 ells of blue serge and white shalloons for lining. All these articles were imported in execution of a contract concluded between the Commissioner of the Executive Directory at Berlin; and Citizen Trescow, a Prussian merchant, who on the security of the diamonds of the Republic, deposited with him, engaged to furnish them, provided they were suffered to be imported free from duty.

At Havre, Rouen and Dunkirk 220,000 ells were also permitted to be imported from Germany, as also 3,251 pieces from Hamburg, and 132 bales from other places. "The impossibility," say the Directory, "of obtaining in France, on credit, the necessary cloth for the most pressing cloathing of the troops, and the opportunity which offered to procure it from abroad for effects which French merchants would not have accepted, and partly for bills, making part of the contribution of a German Power, the payment of which was by no means certain, induced the Directory to sanction these transactions, truly advantageous for the Republic, and without which both the land and sea forces would have been exposed to the utmost want. The importation of these articles, free from duty has not been attended with any loss to the national Treasury, because without this condition it would have been necessary to pay a much higher price, and the contractors, who received bills in payment, would never have agreed to advance the duty.

An article from Cadiz states, that the troops encamped at St. Roch and Algeziras, before Gibraltar, had received orders to March to that city, and that several battalions had arrived there.

It is a fact, which comes to us through the best channels of information, that Dupont de Nemours, one of the members of the council of elders, after the members were arrested, entered his protest against the whole proceedings of the directory—one of the most manly and spirited acts which perhaps stand upon record in the history of any Country, and certainly does immortal honour to the man.

In consequence of the great quantity of bad dollars in circulation, the Bank Directors gave notice in the Gazette of Tuesday, that they mean to issue gold coin to the amount of the of the dollars now in circulation which have been stamped at the Tower.

Land Tax—All difficulties respecting the operation of the new plan said to be intended by the Minister, will easily be removed. Three Gentlemen, very well calculated for the task, have been for some time engaged in a digest of the regulations proposed. The payments, it is believed, will be received by instalments, and of course obviate every difficulty.

The great disproportion of the Land Tax as it is at present levied, will appear from the following instance.—In the little Parish of St. Andrew's, Holborn, the Tax is 90col. a year; while in the vast and opulent Parish of Mary-le-bone producing a revenue of 340,cool. per annum the Land Tax is no more than 4641.l

DUBLIN, September 12.

A very remarkable case of false imprisonment was tried at the assizes of Roscommon, before the hon. justice Finucane and a very respectable jury, wherein Alexander Colvill was plaintiff, and the right hon. Charles Lord Viscount Dillon, defendant.

The case stated was, that the plaintiff was on Sunday the 12th of January, 1794, arrested on a pretended charge of felony by two constables, who bound the plaintiff with hemp ropes, and brought him a prisoner to Loughlin, before his lordship. That his lordship told the plaintiff there were informations sworn against him for sheep stealing; and that his lordship further told the plaintiff that he had an order from government to transport any person of bad character to Botany Bay, and that he would send the plaintiff there the next day; that his lordship then gave verbal orders to said constables to take said plaintiff to the black-hole; as they were taking plaintiff to the black-hole. they were met by a serjeant of capt. Dillon's company, who offered plaintiff a shilling to enlist him in said company;—that plaintiff having refused to enlist, or accept of the shilling, was then very severely bound with ropes and put into the black-hole; that the black-hole is a dark damp, arched vault, situate under old ruins in the demesne of his lordship, to which there was neither light or air admitted, but through a small spike-hole cut through a single stone; that the black-hole is not a public prison or bridewell, but used as a place of confinement by lord Dillon only. That the person called captain Dillon is the supposed natural son of his lordship, and that his lordship procured for him some commission in the army on the terms of his raising men, to effect which, that his lordship used such means as his rank and power in the country enabled him to put in execution. That on the 13th January, plaintiff was brought from the black-hole into lord Dillon's presence, and after several efforts to intimidate plaintiff by charges of felony, his lordship declared there was evidence sufficient to hang the plaintiff; and then ordered him to be brought to capt. Dillon's barracks, where he was kept about two hours, then hand-cuffed, and again put into the black-hole. From Sunday the 12th of January, to the 1st of February, 1794, plaintiff was kept a prisoner without any lawful authority, and for the most part confined in the black-hole, but sometimes in the barracks—that he was bound with ropes, and otherwise treated with great cruelty, particularly that he was for 25 hours of his said confinement in the black-hole, hand-cuffed to one Henry Darr, who, among several others, was sent there by the said lord Dillon

That the plaintiff by his confinement in the back-hole, found himself grown very weak, and his health otherwise much impaired; that during plaintiff's said confinement several efforts by threats and promises were made by capt. Dillon, his serjeant, and some of his recruiting party, and by lord Dillon personally, to induce the plaintiff to enlist, which he obstinately refused; that Mr. Charles Costello, who is the plaintiff's landlord, hearing of his confinement, sent his agent to Lord Dillon, to know for what offence plaintiff was confined, but if there were informations sworn against him for felony, that he might be sent to the county goal; upon which application, and no information of any kind appearing against the plaintiff, he was set at liberty. In some time after, at the plaintiff's instance, Mr. Costello personally applied to his lordship, and requested he would make some compensation to plaintiff for his illegal confinement and great sufferings, which his lordship declined, and said, "What signifies a fellow of that kind, or what can he do?" This case was stated by counseller Boyd, with much energy and force of argument, and fully proved, to the astonishment of the learned judge, and of the jury—who, after a very eloquent and impressive speech on evidence, from counseller Webber, gave a verdict of sixty pounds, with full costs to the plaintiff, who is a poor industrious mechanic, with a wife and several children, totally dependent on his industry for support.

This case is literally copied from the brief, and such were the proceedings.

KINGSTON, (Jam.) Sept. 16.

A gentleman who arrived in the Prince of Wales Packet, mentions that off Martinique they spoke a sloop of war, on board of which were about 150 Defenders, who had enlisted as soldiers. The sloop of war, it was learnt, had called at Jersey or Guernsey, but was not permitted to land the Defenders; they were then carried to Gibraltar, where they met with a similar refusal, after which the sloop of war proceeded to Barbadoes with no better success, and, was spoke with, was going to Martinique.

On Monday his Majesty's ship Remommee, capt. Rolles, returned to Port Royal, from a cruise. On Saturday, the 9th of this month, she was struck by lightning, which killed four men and disabled eleven officers, shivered the main top-mast, and top-gallant mast to splinters and so much injured the main-mast that not one foot above the deck is sound.

During her cruize, she took a Spanish privateer of 10 guns and 47 men.

Wednesday his majesty's ship Albicore, capt. Foster, arrived from a cruise on the coast of Cuba, and brought with her the Spanish Xebeque San Francisco y Animas, from Old Spain bound to Vera Cruz, with a cargo of wine, brandy, cinnamon and pepper, captured off St. Jago de Cuba.

His majesty's brig Pelican, on Monday last, fell in with a French privateer brig called Le Trompeur, near the Mole, which fought her for thirty minutes, when she blew up. The Pelican saved 60 of the crew.

It is mentioned, that a revolutionizing spirit has lately shewn itself at the Carracas, and that 18 principal inhabitants have been taken up, for being concerned in a plan to disseminate principles pernicious to the government.

From his confession, as well as from the appearance of the corpse. He pulled out the eyes, ripped the body, and left the knife plunged into his heart. I have no doubt but we shall be able to find out the cause, for I do not think him deprived of his reason any more than drunkards and murderers are always supposed to be."

While our learned Chief Justice commented with such asperity on those journalists, who in asserting the rights of their country, have reprobated the injuries and violences of the dreadful Republic, and thereby hazarded the wrath even of the reigning triumvirs, a prominent and real grievance called loudly for notice: Need it be adverted to? It is the career of citizen Bache—who, while the Plenipotentiaries of the United States are seeking satisfaction of the wrongs of their Country, leaves no effort untried to weaken their hands and destroy the hopes from their mission, by rearing the bloody tri-color under the very nose of our government, and rallying round it all the profligate traitors who speak to France this language. "You have been trifled with by the treachery of our administration. Think not of conciliation but Revenge. You will find us ready to receive you as brothers, friends and deliverers."

We do not remember a more severe satire on the memory of Old Franklin, than that of a learned law Chief, who on hearing the Philosopher quoted as an authority, silenced the Council by telling him "he might as well quote Tom Thumb."

It will be remembered that Franklin has somewhere remarked, that co-existent with the Liberty of the Press, is the Liberty of the Club. The council for young Humphreys very aptly quoted this authority against the grandson.

If there remained a doubt with respect to the arbitrary intentions of the French triumvirate, after the overthrow of the constitution, the following passage in the speech of Lepaux to the French people on their new year's day, must have been conclusive.

"May the Executive Directory display an active and unremiting vigour IN THE CONDUCT OF GOVERNMENT, and may all civil and military authorities concur."

For the GAZETTE of the UNITED STATES.

MR. FENNO,

In looking over your paper of last evening, I read with avidity the beginning of the extracts of Judge M'Kean's charge to the grand jury on the subject of libels—I flattered myself that the chief justice, after having patiently remained for six long years, a silent spectator of the most unparalleled abuses poured from a particular press in this city, against our own government, and the most eminent characters in the United States, was now going to step forth the champion for government, and correct that abuse.

His doctrine with respect to libels as well as the liberty of the press, I thought generally pretty correct—Yet I must confess, I did not perfectly understand his nice reasoning, where he says, "every freeman has an undoubted right to lay what sentiments he pleases before the public;—declaring immediately afterwards that, if upon a fair trial such sentiments shall be adjudged of pernicious tendency, the person publishing them ought to be punished." This reasoning was at first a little too subtile for my understanding—I had from more gross reasoning been led to believe that a person had no right to publish any sentiments, the pernicious tendency of which were so manifest as to subject him to punishment.

However, my difficulties in understanding this were entirely removed, when on reading a little further I found to my great suprize that in applying his principles he totally forgot the abuse offered our own government, and all its most important officers.—Mr. Bache seems to have been entirely out of his mind—The French, Spaniard, and Porcupine engrossed his whole attention.—Oh! how patriotic it is to think wholly of Frenchmen, and forget what is due to ourselves!

The latter part of the charge unravels what was at first mysterious. The same sentiments now published with respect to the French, while we are trying to negociate, and which are in the opinion of the chief justice, of mischevous tendency, and therefore deserve punishment, were on a former occasion, when held with respect to the British, while we were treating with them, by many thought praise-worthy. I do not say that this last was the opinion of the chief justice; for although I might have a right (from his silence at the time and since) to publish such a sentiment; yet I find I might be punished for it.

This one thing, however, I will venture to assert; that the public will be much gratified if the chief justice will satisfy them how he can with impartiality come out with so much zeal against Porcupine, since he has for so long a time passed over in silence the defamatory publications of Bache.

Is it because the defamation of the latter is against our own government, and the British? whereas that of the former is against democrats and the French—I will not believe it possible for a person under such solemn obligations to distribute justice impartially, to be influenced by such base motives, however irresistable the evidence may be to others.

I will close my observations by remarking (if it will throw any light on the subject) that I have formerly heard many a good democrat when publications in Bache's paper were reprobated, say "that it was necessary in free governments to tolerate many abusive things," who have, since the publication of Porcupine's paper, said that "what Bache and Porcupine both frequently published was intolerable, and they should be glad to see them both strung up together."

A FRIEND TO FAIR PLAY.

MR. FENNO

In congratulating the friends of the Drama on the approaching prospect of enjoyment from the excellent company said to be engaged at the New Theatre for this season, I cannot but hope the Managers will reduce the prices to their old rate. They have been entertaining the Citizens of New York on those terms, and to discriminate between the two Cities, is not only impolitic but unjust. Their house here was well attended when the former prices were received, but many of their best friends declined going at the encreased rates.

Translations from Paris papers.

The following Political View is translated from No. 4, of the Narrateur Impartial, a new paper lately established at Paris, and conducted by several literary characters.

POLITICAL VIEW

Of the Situation of the French Republic.

If we believe the violent of both parties, it would seem that we are in a very critical situation; the 18th of Fructidor, though it somewhat changed the face of things, destroyed neither the hopes of the one, nor the fears of the other.

One party blames all the appointments of the directory, declares if it goes on thus, its reign will be short. They eternally cry out, it is impossible for it to exist, unless it unites itself to, and makes a common cause with the republicans; and that in order to be completely victorious in this revolution, it should join with their party. The government, faithful to its plan, wishes to steer clear of both parties, and put an end to every thing that may tend to excite dissentions.

According to the other party—the government is nearly at an end; it cannot be maintained; its want of finances alone, must destroy it, independent of interior and exterior enemies. It is tyrannical, it is surrounded only by villains, that are execrated by all good men; it keeps the councils under its road, and makes them act as it thinks proper. Its financial measures are condemned, and will never meet with success; in fine, if we believe this party, it is impossible for us to exist as a republic.

The above are the opinions of the different parties, as expressed both in private conversation and the public prints. In the midst of these parties are some peaceable men, who honestly wish for the public good, but are not possessed of sufficient courage to undertake any thing for its attainment. Such is the state of parties, both in the capital and the departments. In such a situation of affairs, it is impossible to determine what will be the result, particularly as it is prudent not to tell the whole truth.

However, in examining with impartiality the proceedings of the two councils, and the government, and the position of our armies, the situation of the republic appears less critical than the violent and factious would wish to make it appear.

The councils again act according to the constitution, and every thing announces that calmness and cool reason preside in their deliberations.

The directory appears sensible of its power. Its public and private acts display firmness and energy. It makes many enemies; it knows also who those enemies are, and seems to brave them. It appears willing to profit by its victory, but not wish to divide its triumph with a certain party. Nevertheless, it wishes to put all those out of the way, who are not attached to the constitution of the 3d year, and its orders to the ministers to purge their offices of all such, clearly proves it; its decrees relative to the emigrants, its message to the councils on the law of the 19th Fructidor, announce a firm intention to rid itself of every thing which it believes opposed to the constitution. All this, however, has no effect upon its obstinate enemies, whom experience of numerous defeats, ought to have convinced that they will yet have a long time to struggle, without any solid hopes of success.

The directory have frustrated part of their plans, yet, others are likely to be laid at the expence of suffering humanity. Already the germs of a New Vendee appear in the west; Midi is a scene of tumult, and our present calm is but the presage of a storm.

Wherefore all these manœuvres? What advantages do they expect to derive from these plans of devastation? Massacre and death! Human blood will flow at the gates of Vienna, and the shores of the Loire will again be strewed with mutilated carcases. O sad and plaintive humanity! When shall thy accents be heard? Unfortunate country! When shall thy children cease to destroy each other?

May our wishes be realized, may humanity have no more cause to sigh, and may the men of every party be convinced, that it is time the French people should become a nation of brothers.

English Grammar,

The second edition, with improvements,

ADAPTED to the different classes of learners; with an appendix, containing rules and observations for assisting the more advanced students to write with perspicuity and accuracy.

By LINDLEY MURRAY.

"This is a publication of much merit, and fully answers the professions in the Title. The appendix contains some of the best rules for writing elegantly, and with propriety, that we recollect to have seen."

Monthly Review, July 1796.

"This Grammar is, on many accounts entitled to commendatory notice, its materials have been carefully and judiciously selected; its arrangement is distinct and well adapted to the purpose of instruction and its expression is simple, perspicuous and accurate, &c."

See the character at large in the Analytical Review, July 1796.

English Exercises,

Adapted to the Grammar lately published by Lindley Murray, consisting of exemplification of the parts of speech, instances of false orthography, violations of the rules of syntax, defects in punctuation, and violations of the rules respecting perspicuity and accuracy, designed for the benefit of private learners, as well as for the use of schools.

"We have been much pleased with the perusal of these Exercises. They occupy with distinguished excellence a most important place in the science of the English language; and as such, we can warmly recommend them to the Teachers of Schools, as well as to all those who are desirous of attaining correctness and precision in their native tongue."

Salisbury Estate.

THE Subscriber, proposing to contract his business, offers this Estate for sale, on moderate terms. On it are one Blast and three Air Furnaces, a complete Boreing Machine, and a very good grist Mill, with two pair of stones; also a good Forge, all in perfect repair, as are all the Water Works connected with these various branches. The Air Furnaces were lately built for the purpose of casting Cannon for this State.—There are about two thousand acres of Land, one half of which is under wood, the other very fine arable Land, producing the best Hay and Pasture. The Cannon lately manufactured there, fully proves the excellency of the metal, which is superior to any in this country, and probably, equal to any in the world; for not one of sixty-nine guns lately made, although some of the 24 were bored into 32 pounders have failed on proving. The situation is very eligible, particularly for this branch of manufacture, and a place of arms lying in the state of Connecticut, and only 30 miles from several landings on the Hudson's river, and having every advantage that can result from a plenty of water issuing from a large natural pond, very near the Furnace, and which may be converted into a variety of other useful purposes. The purchaser can be accommodated with all the stock and utensils, and have possession on or before the first of June next; and preparation may be made in the meantime for going into Blast immediately thereafter, for every part will be delivered in good order, with some coal, Ore, &c. &c. For terms, apply to Mr Joseph Anthony, in Philadelphia; David Brooks, Esq. one of the Representatives in Congress for this State; Mr, David Waterman, on the premises, or to the proprietor in New-York.

Philadelphia, June 9, 1797. §1wmwstf

The printers in the United States are requested to insert the following Observations in their papers; by which the public will be served, as well as their obedient servant.

B. LINCOLN, Superintendant of Light-Houses, State of Massachusetts.

BY order of the United States, a Light House has been erected at the Clay Ponds, on Cape Cod; the lamps in which are to be lighted on the 15th inst. The light house is erected on land elevated about 150 feet, which with the elevation of the Lantern makes the whole height 200 feet above high water mark. In order that this Light may be distinguished from the Boston and other Lights on our coast, an Eclipser is erected, which will revolve around the Lamps once in 80 seconds so that the light will be nearly excluded from the eye of the approaching mariner about thirty seconds, in one revolution of the eclipser. To render the benevolent designs of Congress as extensively useful as possible, the Maine Society in Boston, by a large Committee from their body, whose views have been seconded by others, have taken such distances and bearings as they thought necessary; which observations giving light and safety are added for the benefit of all interested—and are as follows——

Vessels outward bound, from Boston Light-house, and would wish to fall in with Cape-Cod the course is E. S. E. distance 15 leagues, thence 3 leagues to the Light house. When up with the Light-house and it bears S W 2 leagues distance, you then steer S S E which will carry you out of the south channel.

Vessels inward bound, and fall in with the back of Cape-Cod, bring the Light to bear S W 2 leagues distance, then you may steer WNW for Boston Light-House.

If you you would wish to go into Cape Cod harbor, you may keep the shore aboard about a mile distant, where you will have 10 fathoms water. There is a bar lies off the back of the Cape, about half a mile from the shore.

When up with Race-point, which is very bold, and about three leagues to the westward of the Light-house, and may be known by a number of fish houses on it, from 1 to 3 miles to the southward of Race-point, is what is called Herring Cove, where you may have good anchoring half a mile from the shore, the wind from E to N N E in 4 or even 3 fathom water.

If bound into Cape Cod harbor, your course from Race-point to Wood end, is S S E 6 miles distance, bring the light to bear E by N and run for it about two miles, you will then be clear of Wood end—then you must steer N E until the light bears E by S—then run N W for the harbor, until you have from 4 to 3 1-2 fathoms water, where you have good anchoring, the Light then will bear E by S 1-2 S 5 or 6 miles distance.

In running from the Race point to Wood End—after you pass the Black Land or Hummucks, you will come up with a low sandy beach, which forms the harbor; extending between 2 and 3 miles to Wood-end, which is difficult to be distinguished in the night—It is very bold—you will have 25 fathom water within half a mile of the shore.

In beating into Cape-Cod harbor, you must keep the eastern shore aboard, until you get into 5 fathom water. Stand no farther to the westward than to bring the light to bear E by S as there is a long spit of sand runs off from the western shore, which being very bold, you will have 11 fathom water within a stones throw of shore.

In case it blows so hard that you cannot beat in the harbor, you will have good anchoring without, from 10 to 15 fathom water.

Vessels in Boston bay and would wish to put away for Cape Cod harbor, must endeavor to fall in with the Race. If in the night, and you cannot see the land, you must bring the Light to bear E by N and run for it until you have soundings in 14 or 15 fathom water, then steer north east until the light bears E by S then run in N W for the harbor.

At full and change, it is high water off Race Point at 10 o'clock and 45 minutes. Vessels in leaving Cape Cod bound to Boston, should calculate the tide, as the flood sets strong to the south west.

PEALE'S MUSEUM.

THIS valuable repository of the works of Nature, so well calculated to delight the mind and enlarge the understanding, is opened daily, as usual. It stands in an airy and healthy situation, and free from the epidemic that at present afflicts the city; it may, therefore, be frequented with the greatest safety.

As an Amusement, the study of Nature is the most rational and pleasing: as a Science, the most sublime and instructive. It elevates the mind and expands the heart. They

"Whom Nature's works can charm, with God himself

Many interesting additions have lately been made to this Museum: and the feathered tribe, containing a variety of the most rare and beautiful subjects, is now very advantageously arranged. Waxen Figures, of Men large as life (some of them casts from nature) are here dressed in their proper habits, and placed in attitudes characteristic of their respective nations. Here may be seen the North-American Savage, and the Savage of South-America—a laboring Chinese, and the Chinese Gentleman—the sooty African, and the Kamtschadale—with some Natives of the South Sea Islands. The immense variety and interesting diversity which this Museum offers to the view, may be seen but cannot be described with full effect.
